Idgisata eniomal bal namilit Bayou, only a few miles from here, and there, in the edge of the mar h was the negro's "gas". Lemoine touched a match to it and it hurned Back to Lake Charles he hurried and his first step was to take in his partner. M Henshaw Then the two set out to act leases. They fied up 4,000 acres of land without expending a penny, agreeing only to pay the owners from $2 to $3 an acre provided they interested some concern that would attempt exploration and development. Fellow citizens of the pair here knew what they were about, but they did not let Lake Charles afire with their enthusiasm, else the leases would have been more difficult to oblain.

There followed a struggle to find some oil concern to tackle the proposition. After geologists and other experts had gone over the ground a company became interested and agreed to test the field thruout The money to bind the leases was in hand, and Lemoine and Henshaw were to get forty-eighth loyalty as their share of what was produced.

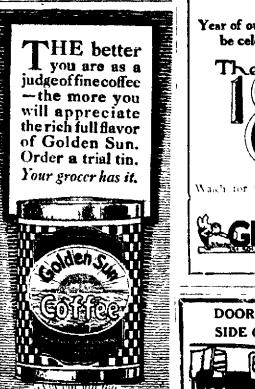

Drilling began 18 months ago and still Lake Charles sailed slong on an even keel Moore well No 1 was a flivver; so was No 2. Then the company kao acres south and started sinking the Miller well There's a rumor that the 80 acre was made because the question of title loomed in the interrening plot of ground. Anyway, the drilling was resumed They had moved out of the pine woods, out of what appeared to be a natural oil dome, and entered the low maish land. The first 3,400 feet were easy. As the engineer said "The pipe almost went down of its own weight" Then came gumbo, shale and sand for 900 feet and then—the susher then the gusher The usual harde of proven all field workers, wildcatters and what not has moved in, machinery and material for more wells and tanks is being transported to the field by the trainfond, and Lemoine is oiling bla shotgun and exercising his dog preparatory to the opening of the 1924 hunting season.

Pome Planned for Celebrated Watteng-st Route

LONDON — (By Associated Press) — The assessment that the Prince of Wales, upon returning from his American and Casadian trip, will on Nov. 19, formally open the reconstructed road between Dartford and Strood, draws attention to one of the oldest and most celebrated highways in Europe.

This natch of road is in reality

This patch of road is in reality part of Watling Street, a thorofare of great antiquity which still traverses the heart of Lon-dan and, just back of St. Paul's Cathedral, to this day bears its ancient name. No one knows how old Watling Street is, but it had been long established when the Romans came to Britain two thousand years ago.

The motorist who today comes up to London from Canterbury traverses the same road, the famone Watling Street, which Roman soldiers took when, on conquest bent, they marched thru England. Jutish marauders in their day burned and plundered the countryside which it served. Traders from Gaul trudged over its stones long before the medieval age, in fact, the whole pano-rama of English history would be unrolled if this ancient way could speak.

And this old road which the Prince of Wales will again throw open to the public in November is today what it has ever been, the most convenient route between London and the ports of

Are You An Expert?

Some one has defined an expert as a man who lives 100 miles away and charges $100 a day for his services. Experts, however, have their place and are necessary. An interesting development is this: In many fields, the INDIVIDUAL EXPERT is being displaced by an EXPERT METHOD that can be applied by average common sense.

For instance, it is an expert's task to determine the "mental age" of children, and particularly children not sufficiently subnormal to be placed in institutions but too far below average intelligence to keep pace with an ordinary school class, accordingly needing special classes.

Experts have charge of such work. Usually they go around from one community to another, in "caravan clinics."

One of the leading authorites in this speech he announced: "An ordinary teachwithout giving a formal intelligence test, fruit. So on, can estimate a subnormal child's mental Binet Estimate. Her findings for a subnormal class are superior to those of a group test, and for this purpose caravan clinics are unnecessary."

Dr. Sinclair came to this conclusion after results or ratings as obtained by experts.

Another illustration is radio, extremely complicated. Yet a lad can build his own radio, the he couldn't repair that far simpler mechanism, a watch. The reason is that experts, instead of keeping their secrets to themselves and building all radios under their own supervision, have created and released expert systems or hook-ups-easily put into effect by any one with fair Intelli-

The ability to "carry out" complicated instructions is amazingly widespread. It speaks highly for the educational system that has made it possible by brain training.

Your Food

If you have just an average appetite, every year you eat 1400 pounds of solid food and almost as much liquids.

The "liquids" include the water that forms a natural part of all vegetables and meats. Celery, for instance, is almost entirely water.

In a lifetime you cat enough food to fill a train of freight cars several miles long. So estimates a scientist. Mother, who carries the heavy market basket, is apt to claim the estimate is too low.

There was a time when people ate what they could get. In primitive days food was largely a matter of chance. In time, man learned to domesticate animais and cultivate the soil. The element of chance grew less. Diet became more certain. He could buy the things he liked

Then men began to specialize. Food raising was left to a definite part of the population. Families had a wider choice. They could buy what they preferred-and get

Came the age of advertising. Publicity has been applied strenuously to foodstuffs, inducing people to buy certain foods-helping them make up their minds instead of leaving the choice entirely to the eater.

Now we have still another methodpropaganda to entice people into using certain specific foods in preference to others.

Thus the raisin growers unite in an advertising campaign to increase their sales work is Dr. Samuel B. Sinclair. In a recent by educating people to a knowledge that they need from found in raisins. RESULT OF PROFIT-TAKING

Declines in Corn and Oats Are: Registered

CHICAGO — (By Associated Press) — Altho the wheat market today opened at the highest price which the December delivery had yet touched this season, heavy profit-taking sales quickly brought about a decided setback. The initial upturn was due to higher quotations at Liverpool and to further drought com-plaints from Argentina. Advices at hand said that owing to drought and frost the Argentine crop could hardly exceed 75 per cent of last year's total. Open-ing prices, which varied from the same as yesterday's finish to one cent higher with December $1.51 1-2 to 1.52 3-4 and May $1.50 to 1.56 3.4 were followed by a general downturn that in some cases went three cents under the earlier top level.

Corn and oats declined as a result of fine weather and lack of support. After opening at 1-4c off to an equal advance, December $1.13 1-2 to 1.14, corn showed losses of more than 2

Oats started unchanged to 1-1c higher, December 56 cents. Later all months underwent a material decline. Rapid disappearance of stocks of lard gave firmness to the provision market.
